The same irresistible force of self-ordering, self-organizing evolution that had built atoms from plasma, molecules from atoms, then life itself, and from there produced the supreme phenomenon of mind and all that could be created by mind. The feeble ripples that ran counter to the evolutionary current were as incapable of checking it as was a breeze of reversing the flow of a river; the promise of the future was new horizons opening up endlessly toward an ever-expanding vista of greater knowledge, undreamed-of resources, and prospects without limit. If it's me you want, I'll take the three of you, but some other place. He's got nothing to do with this." Dr. Doom had gone out to a movie or to dinner. Or to kill someone. . . . the next growth of trees. . . . 11 as a kid by an uncle who had died fifteen years into the voyage from a heart condition, but that was about all. . . . Through darkness he flees, all but blind, not without fear but purged of doubt, across sandstone but also. . . . heard about the courtesy of the road. Everyone's hellbent on getting to the interstate, racing around and. . . . among the big rigs. . . . shouting, a couple men cursing, a woman, shakily reciting the Hail Mary prayer over and over. The. "M32s," the robot said. "They've the enhanced fireselectors." . . . were one great hive, crowded to capacity with a busy horde that at any moment would break through the. . . . By the time the flyer touched down at the front of the house, Celia's earlier nervousness had given way to a stoic resignation to the fact that she was now committed. She had gambled that Stern would accept her desire to return to her home as normal feminine behavior and that because he believed her to be helpless and without anyone else to run to anyway, the thought of her trying to escape would not enter his mind seriously. That . . . was just how it had worked out; her three SD guards and a matron had orders to keep her under observation and from talking to anybody, but she was not considered to be a prisoner. Her only worry now was that Veronica might have failed to contact Colman or that for some reason he might have been unable to do anything. "You have a contractual agreement." . . . As far as Borftein could see, with himself and the Army behind him, Kalens had all the authority he needed—provided, of course, that he won the upcoming election. But after talking to Stern about it, Kalens had accepted that an attempt to impose authority over Chiron overtly would risk alienating the Mission's population. A more subtle approach was called for. "Ultimately, human instincts cling to the known and the familiar," Kalens lectured Borftein later. "A visible commitment to lawfulness as a alternative to the lawlessness of this planet is the way to maintain cohesiveness. We can't afford to jeopardize that." So Borftein had . . . agreed to try playing the game their way, which hinged upon provisions written into the laws to take account of the abnormal circumstances of a twenty-year voyage through space. . . . She cracked her hip against the chunky post at the corner of the footboard, fell against the bed, but at. "I never lost myself." . . . CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX. "We're going to have to talk about this, Jay." Bernard's voice was very serious. "I was teasing, really," Murphy said. "With a flyer up overhead, there's no way they'd be likely to get near anybody. But it's customary to go armed when you're not in places like Franklin. . . . just in case." . . . door is ajar. He opens it wider. With the flashlight beam, he shops for clothes. . . . the street, head raised as though he were admiring the palette of the twilight sky. . . . flying bullets? On the other hand, although she provides a convenient target, her fantastic bulk no doubt. . . . fantasy and fairy lore, though always a benign version: a kindly troll or perhaps a good-hearted kobold. "Go, go, go!" Curtis urges, because the night has grown strange, and is now a great black beast with a circumference of each iris. . . . In the D Company Orderly Room in the Omar Bradley barracks block, Hanlon secured his ammunition belt, put. "Stop this now," Borftein advised grimly. "How much of the Army do you think will follow you?" "I don't think you're taking enough account of the psychological effects on our own people," he said when he finally looked up. "Morale is high now that we're nearly there, and I don't want to spoil it. We've encouraged a popular image of the Chironians that's intended to help our people adopt an assertive role, and we've continually stressed the predominance of younger age groups there." He shook his head. "Heavy-handed methods are not the way to deal with what would be seen now as essentially a race of children. We'd just be inviting resentment and protest inside our own camp, and that's the last thing we want. . . . give a rat's ass whether it was poisonous or not, because it could have changed her life if it had gotten. . . . perhaps this was nothing more than a pretense of amusement, to cover her discomfort at how close. . . . miles per hour. He's not concerned about being seen, only about losing the comforting music when the. . . . He stays away from the restaurant proper, with its tables and red vinyl booths. Instead he goes directly. . . . She had spoken to Geneva of things she'd never expected to speak of to anyone, and she'd found relief. . . . above her, in the open doorway, and even in this poor light, Leilani could see that they both still looked. . . . which Laura served her life sentence, that inner darkness wouldn't be brightened by them. . . . him, but Donella controls his access to the grub, or to whatever you call it when it's a few notches above. . . . Only Aunt Gen, last of the innocents, would call them boyfriends? those predators, pariahs proud of. . . . As an artillery major in his early thirties he had seen that South Africa's cause was ultimately lost, and had uprooted himself to place his services and experience at the disposal of the emergent New Order of Greater North America, where veterans at countering guerilla offensives and civil disorder were eagerly sought to assist in the "renormalization" of the chaos bequeathed by the war. Promoted rapidly through the ranks of an elite entrusted with the might of the new nation, Borftein glimpsed a vision of commanding a force truly capable of bringing to heel the entire world. But the vision had been short-lived. A golden opportunity presented itself when Asia—then the only serious rival—fell upon itself in the struggle for domination between China and Japan-India. But the chance had slipped away while the politicians wavered, eventually to be lost forever with China's success and the subsequent consolidation of the Eastern Asiatic Federation. After that, the future had held only the prospect of an eventual head-on collision between the two halves of the globe and more ungloried decades of turmoil and indecisive skirmishings to pick up the pieces. Conditions for launching a worldwide Grand Design would not come again in his lifetime. And so he had left to seek a more rewarding destiny with the Mayflower II. It was ironic, he had thought to himself many times, that impatience and restlessness had led him to a decision that would immobilize him in space for twenty years. . . . Colman grinned and drank from the glass. "Not quite that bad. But some of them do have pretty funny ideas—or did have, anyway. A lot of people couldn't imagine that kids brought up by machines could be anything else but . . . 'inhuman,' I guess you'd call it—cold, that kind of thing." "Thanks a lot," Jay said. . . . peculiar quality of confrontation had crept into their exchange.
